The application of a traditional wax and a hot bonding glue is a popular decorative process. This process can be readily combined with a glazing. Sawing and bending wood. ----- Wood is hard and brittle, which makes it very difficult to use for woodworking. If the sawing and bending of wood have to be done, we mostly use a circular saw and a jig-saw. Use of an electric sander. ----- Modern construction techniques frequently require the use of an electric sander. As far as sanding is concerned, an orbital or bench sander is best. Staining. ----- Wood can be stained any color. All colors can be used, but also some more special colors, such as white or black, for example. The very best colors for use are . A method that is rarely used in hobby woodworking, but is becoming increasingly popular, is to glaze the object. This not only creates a permanent object, but also gives the object a very pleasant and cleanly-finished surface. The use of glue and screws. ----- Woodworking requires that the sawing and bending have to be done with screws, which also greatly facilitates the gluing. Accessories. ----- Woodworking is one of the most popular hobbies, so in most cases the woodworkers need the accessories that are needed for this hobby. The metal. ----- For shaping some of the parts and for hanging them together, a metal is useful. The tools. The woodworkers must not forget about the materials that are used. A craftsman needs a good hammer, a spade, a saw, a router, a pencil, a knife and so on. If these tools are useful for any hobby, there is a great number of hobby tools that are created, such as sewing needles, scissors, a needle threader, a small knife, a ruler, pen and pencil, a healing wire, a bottle opener, a cigarette lighter, a screwdriver and so on.
